Investment objective

Seeks to provide capital preservation, liquidity, and current income at levels that are typically higher than those provided by money market funds.

Investment strategy

The strategy is primarily comprised of investment contracts called benefit responsive wraps (“wrap contracts”) that are issued by banks and insurance companies. The wrap contracts help to stabilize the value and returns of the fund. These contracts are backed by fixed income portfolios that primarily consist of U.S. Treasury, Agency, Corporate Debt, Mortgage-Backed and Asset-Backed Securities.

General note

Investing in the fund: You can invest in the JPMorgan Stable Value Fund, or other funds, as often as your plan allows. You can move all—or part—of your account balance into the fund daily, or as often as your plan allows.

Shifts into stock funds: The money you have in the JPMorgan Stable Value Fund can be transferred into a stock fund or bond fund at any time, or as often as your plan allows. But once the money is transferred to a stock fund or bond fund, it must remain there for 90 days before you can transfer it into Vanguard Prime Money Market Fund. You can transfer the money back to the JPMorgan Stable Value Fund at any time.

Transfers into other funds: The money you have in the fund can be transferred into a stock fund, a balanced fund, or a bond fund with an average duration of more than four years as often as your plan allows. However, once the money is transferred into such a fund, it must remain there for 90 days before you can transfer it into a shorter-term bond or money market fund. You can always transfer the money back into the fund, even if you transferred money out within the last 90 days. If you have a question regarding your funds, please contact Vanguard Participant Services.

The performance data shown represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results. Investment returns will fluctuate. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data cited. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, visit our website at www.vanguard.com/performance. Figures for periods of less than one year are cumulative returns. All other figures represent average annual returns. Performance figures include the reinvestment of all dividends and any capital gains distributions. All returns are net of expenses.
Plain talk about risk

A stable value fund investment does not constitute a balanced investment program. Although highly rated investments are selected for the fund, the contracts held by the fund are not guaranteed by the U.S. government, Vanguard, the trustee, or your retirement plan. The fund will seek to invest with a diversified selection of contract issuers. A stable value fund is designed as a low-risk investment but you could still lose money by investing in it. The primary risks of investing in the fund are:

Credit risk: The chance that an issuer will fail to pay interest and principal in a timely manner. Credit risk should be low for the fund because it invests mainly in investments that are considered high-quality.

Event Risk: The chance that a synthetic or traditional contract issuer will pay participant benefits at a value less than book value because of the occurrence of an event or condition which is outside the normal operation of the plan (for example, layoffs, plan amendments, sale of a division, participant withdrawals due to the plan sponsor’s insolvency or bankruptcy).

Income Risk: The possibility that a fund’s income will decline as a result of falling interest rates. Investments are generally made for terms of at least two to five years, on average, producing a rate of fund income that will be higher than that earned on shorter-maturity money market funds. But because it is influenced by average interest rates over a period of several years, the fund’s income yield may remain above or stay below current market yields during some time periods. Income risk will be moderately high for the fund.

Inflation Risk: The chance that fund returns will not keep pace with the cost of living.

Market risk: The chance that the fund’s price per share will change as a result of movements in market interest rates, resulting in gains or losses on investments made in the fund. The risk is minimized by investing primarily in investment contracts that enable the fund, under present accounting standards, to value its assets at book value. Most often associated with stock mutual funds, short-term market risk is low.

Note: An investment in the fund is neither insured nor guaranteed by the U.S. government. There is no assurance that the fund will be able to maintain a stable net asset value of $1 a share, and it is possible to lose money by investing in the fund.
